CRIME MOST BRUTAL IN CHICAGO HISTORY

Ransom, Slain by Moral
Pervert, Killed by Older
Boys, Are Theories Advanced.

BY H. H. ROBERTSON.

Chicago, May 23.—A typewritten letter, two untraced telephone calls and a pair of glasses—these were the only clues Chicago authorities had after 24 hours of investigation of the kidnaping and murder of 13-year-old Robert Franks, son of Jacob Franks, millionaire.

With police officials disagreeing among themselves, physicians quarreling over the condition of the boy's body, and private detective agencies vying with each other in almost hourly "novel solutions" of the crime, it was learned definitely from a source high in the police department that all efforts so far to obtain any definite evidence relating to the murder mystery had proved fruitless.

The crime was one of the most brutal in the city's history. Young Franks' body was found early Thursday afloat in a culvert in a swamp on the city's outskirts. Sunlight chanced to reveal the body to a laborer who was passing. So sure were the boy's slayers that his body would not be discovered for some time that they even made an attempt to collect $10,000 ransom money, demanded previously in a letter sent the father on Thursday afternoon, after identification of the body had been made by a relative and the news temporarily suppressed.

Three Theories Held.—The opinion of three different officials in direct charge of the murder investigation—all the policemen in Chicago and scores of private detectives are trying to reconstruct what actually happened to young Franks.

Lieutenant Michael Grady, of the detective bureau, the man who has solved some of the most puzzling mysteries that ever confronted authorities here, believes the case is one simply of kidnaping for ransom. He has scores of men at work in the underworld haunts on the theory that some clue will be developed.

Chief of Detectives Hughes leans to the theory that a pervert, of an unusual type, a highly-educated man, well acquainted with Franks and known by his family, killed the boy to seal his lips.

Coroner Oscar Wolff, after personally directing a thorough examination of the body, said he believed Franks had been killed by other boys—older boys.

To support his belief that the crime was a pathological one, Chief Hughes pointed out that the meticulously-phased typewritten letter received Thursday by the father, which contained a demand for $10,000 ransom money, evidently was written by a person of considerable education.

Shows Evidence of Attack.—Early Friday, Coroner's Physician

Beulah Annan Faces Jury
Sworn To Be Beauty Blind

Chicago, May 23.—Facing eleven men who have sworn that a classic profile or a beautiful figure are as nothing to them compared to the cold facts of conduct, Beulah Annan, "musical murderess" on trial for slaying her gentleman friend while her husband toiled in a nearby garage, lost the first tilt in her fight for freedom Friday. Confessions she made shortly after her arrest were ruled admissible as evidence.

Although defense attorneys already have conceded that their beautiful client shot Harry Kalstedt, they contended that she did so in self-defense—in the defense of her honor and her home. In her confession, however, Beulah said that Kalstedt had been a close friend a long time, that she loved him and that she killed him when he threatened to leave her.

IN AUTO CRASHES

Eight Victims Claimed in Collision of Cars on West Fourteenth Street.
Officer Is Hurt.

Eleven persons were injured in automobile accidents Friday, eight of these being hurt when a machine driven by W. T. Fowler, of 62 Alamo avenue, collided with a car operated by H. W. Willis, negro, on West Fourteenth street late at night. Occupants of Fowler's machine suffering in the collision were L. C. Fowler, Curtis Robertson, 1274 Marietta street; Willie Vinson, 44 Jefferson street; E. S. Thornton, 1050 Marietta street, and J. L. Watkins, 56 Jefferson street. Willis and two negro companions also were injured. Addresses of the negroes were not learned.

James McRae, a Western Union messenger, was knocked from his bicycle when hit by an automobile driven by J. R. Campbell, of 400 North Boulevard. Campbell, after carrying the boy to a hospital, reported the accident to police barracks. The accident occurred Friday morning at Mitchell and Pryor streets. McRae's condition is not known.

Negro Is Injured.—Another accident, in which a negro, R. Lindenberg, no address given, was hurt, was reported to police Friday morning. While crossing Spring street, near Peachtree place, Lindenberg was struck by a car driven by C. B. Holland, of 35 East North avenue. The negro received minor injuries. No police case was made.

After Motorcycle Officer P. H. Jones, 55 Kroger street, had received a broken arm, when his machine skidded and threw him to the pavement, as he turned out of the path of a speeding truck, he mounted his machine again, chased the negro truck driver and placed him under arrest. He then reported to Grady hospital. The negro gave his name as police.

Chicago, May 23.—The carrier pigeon has been introduced as an adjunct to the blackmailer's art. Emil and Herman Lamma, proprietors of a clothing store, discovered a small black box in their office Friday which contained a pigeon and its note.

"Tie a $50 bill to this pigeon's leg and let it fly away tomorrow morning before 6 o'clock, or you will die."

Pepper Composite Proposal
Was Introduced
One Day After President Declared His Views.

PLANS FORM ISSUE
FOR CAMPAIGN USE

No Action by Senate Possible
in Present Congress,
Although Committee Will Report.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, May 23.—Rejecting the world court compromise plans put up by republican senators, President Coolidge has made known emphatically that he had pledged himself to the Harding-Hughes proposal and that he intends to go before the country on it.

The full measure of the gulf that now separates Coolidge from Senator Lodge and other republicans on the foreign relations committee became known through a white house spokesman Friday.

It was learned that President Coolidge told the republican senators at the white house a few nights ago that he was committed irrevocably to the Harding-Hughes plan, that he had advocated it in several addresses and in his initial message to congress, that Coolidge delegates to the national convention had been elected on the assumption that the president would support this plan, and that if for no other reason, good faith requires him to stand on the original plan.

Struck Very Next Day.—Yet, the next day the senators began framing a compromise measure which Senator Pepper introduced in the senate Thursday with the remark that anyone who opposed it would do so because he was moved by concern for the league of nations rather than by interest in the court as an independent institution. Pepper and the other senators are trying to take the election of judges away from the league.

Pepper's plan has the approval of other republican senators, and they are preparing to make an effort to report it out of committee.

President Coolidge is irritated at this action of the senators who had just previously been at the white house and received a statement of his views in emphatic form. He regards it as an attempt to shake him by sheer force from the Harding-Hughes plan.

First Showdown Today.—The white house does not believe any plan will get through the senate this session. But whether it does or does not, the president will go before the country on the proposition first presented by his predecessor.

The first showdown comes Saturday when the senate foreign relations committee expects to vote on several plans presented. Democrats will force a test vote on the Harding-Hughes plan through a motion to adopt the Swanson resolution providing for acceptance of the plan in toto. This will force republican senators on record and the probability is that it will be rejected by republican votes. Advance reports indicate that the Pepper plan will be approved.

No action is probable in the senate at this time, so that the question will be a football through the campaign leading to a real fight in the next session.

Mayor John F. Hyman Friday ordered a municipal inquiry into the case after receiving many letters of protest. Most of these pointed out that speeders, on their second conviction, usually are sent to prison for long terms by Magistrate Marsh. Commissioner Davis Hirschfeld, who will conduct the inquiry, will try to ascertain also why special cars were taken to conceal the records of Miss Rockefeller's latest fast

NAVY MUST WAIT FOR NEEDED FUNDS
TO REPAIR SHIPS

Congress Is Disposed To Heed Recommendations of Wilbur on Needs of Fleet.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT
BLOCKS QUICK ACTION

House To Consider Appropriation for Eight
New Cruisers at Wednesday Session.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, May 23.—Despite the plea of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur for appropriations to bring the battle fleet up to part, there appears little likelihood of final action before congress adjourns on these measures desired to bring the navy up to the naval limitations treaty ratio.

The obstacle is the senate, where a clogged calendar bars speedy action. Before the necessary bills can be brought to the floor they must be considered by the senate naval affairs committee, Chairman Hale said Friday, and hearings by the committee, he stated, will await action by the house.

Cruiser Bill Up.—Next Wednesday, the house will take up the $120,000,000 bill providing for eight light cruisers, reconnoitering of six first-line battleships, and six river gunboats for operation in China. Chairman Butler, of the house naval affairs committee, said Friday that the measure would be passed.

Reaction to Wilbur's report was generally to arouse a desire to push the necessary legislation through. Senator Hale, of Maine, however, made a lengthy speech on the floor in defense of the navy as it stands, Friday, declaring that "we are nearer the 5-5-3 ratio at the present time than we were at the time of the signing of the treaty."

Strive for Ratio.—"That we shall eventually reach that ratio throughout the navy I believe should be our future policy," he said.

"Ship by ship, with the exception of our two oldest ships, our battleships are of greater tonnage, carry more or heavier guns, and are more heavily armored than the present British ships. Their speed, however, is somewhat less than that of the British ships, and the same is true to a lesser extent in comparison with the battleships of Japan."

"The battle cruisers of both England and Japan carry heavy guns and are much faster than our battleships; but, as they are not heavily armored, in actual battle with guns of an equal range this class of ships could not stand up against a battleship."

Hale said that numerous reports which have been circulated about the "deplorable" condition of the fleet are unfounded. He approves, however, of Wilbur's recommendations, and said that if the legislation were not enacted at this session, it would be at the first of the next. The appropriations, he said, would not be available at any rate until next year.

Favors All Suggestions.—Butler, in the house, said that he does not expect any other legislation or the house at this session except the bill to be taken up Wednesday. He says that all of Wilbur's recommendations should be carried out, but that the press of other business incident to adjournment will not allow it.

Wilbur asked, in addition, for money to modernize thirteen first-line battleships, by raising the gun elevation and installing anti-aircraft and anti-submarine protection, and for building three mine-laying submarines. Representative Britten, of Illinois, ranking republican member on the naval affairs committee, has introduced a bill providing $6,500,000 for elevation of guns.

Satterfield, on Gallows,
Smiles Welcome to Death

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
"Time's up now, Satterfield. We'll have to start in a minute. Do you think you need any stimulant?" so asked the doctor bringing his face close to the steel bars of the doomed man's cell. But the murderer smiles and there is a merry twinkle in his eyes as he answers: "Well, now, doctor, I don't know whether I will need any or not. I never had to go through this kind of experience before. But I think I'll pull through without any this time," and he just laughs out loud.

But the face straightens and hardens, the chin sticks out with determination as four or five men halt in front of his cell and one unfasts the door.

The March of Doom.

There is the clang of steel and the rattle of keys, the jangling of chains and hard metallic clangs in that jail, for the rest as still as the tomb. Some shuffling of feet and the procession is on its way. In front walks a man with a Bible in his hand. Next comes Satterfield flanked by two deputies. Three other men follow behind. He walks like a soldier on parade, chin up, back straight, hands swinging. Then up the elevator where the procession of death resumes its solemn measured tread. Round the steel corridor, with awful rhythmic staccato. One, two, one, two. All are in step. That's the way they march into the death room.

When Satterfield sees the men, doctors, witnesses, officers of the law and newspapermen ranged along the side with uncovered heads, he throws out his chest and his head goes up with a jerk.

Now up the steps to the gallows. The sheriff and his assistants await him on top. Arrived on the gallows the men range themselves in a semi-circle and Satterfield looks around. His eyes rest for a moment on each face in turn.

Looks Beyond Preacher.—Somebody shakes hands with him and he smiles and bows. A sadly monotonous voice begins to read about a "Father's house with many mansions." Satterfield folds his hands and listens. But his eyes seek the light of the window below him and he looks beyond the preacher.

There is just one ray of sunshine piercing into that gloomy death chamber. Just one tiny ray from that great world bathed in light and freedom and that one ray holds Satterfield spellbound.

The preacher is finished now and the sheriff asks Satterfield if he has anything to say.

He begins to talk. He speaks without halting, without excitement and with quiet gestures. When he speaks of Christ dying on the cross, he spreads out his arms wide and he repeats the words: "He died for me."

Tiny Band of Women Keeps
SILENT PROTEST AGAINST CAPITAL PENALTY
Death Watch at Capitol

BY RALPH JONES.
All day long Friday a tiny band of women kept a silent death-watch in the outer office of the governor, hoping against hope that a last-minute reprieve would save the life of J. H. Satterfield, condemned slayer, who went to his death in Fulton tower just a stone's throw away, on Friday afternoon.

There was nothing the women could do, save register, by their presence, a silent protest against the law of a state, which says that the ancient Mosaic law of "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, a life for a life," is still paramount, is yet the law of the world despite the merciful teachings of a Christ who died to teach mercy and charity and love.

Governor Arrives.—The women gave their names as Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Sayers and Mrs. Osborne. They sat, two of them garbed in somber black, and the third quietly dressed in brown, all day long. It was nearly 3 o'clock when the governor reached his office. He had traveled all day from south Georgia, and came directly to his office from the train. On the way he had talked with Murphy Holloway, counsel for the condemned man, and had refused, for the last time, to extend the merciful arm of executive clemency between Satterfield and the gallows.

When he entered his office he spoke to the women. They answered and the conversation continued for a minute or two. Then the governor went into his private office and the women resumed their silent vigil, with eyes fixed upon the leather settees of the public reception room.

Young said about 20 shots were fired at his automobile from automatic pistols of large caliber by four men in a sedan who sped by his car and escaped down the road before he could return the fire. Two of the men he believes he can identify.

Glenn Young is well known in this section of the country where he served for years as a government agent. He won national recognition when he pursued and captured the Crawley brothers, who were wanted for killing an officer of the law in north Georgia.

SPEAKS OF DAUGHTER
AS DOOM APPROACHES

Tears Stain His Face as He Remembers Her
Fate—Expresses Desire
That Body Be Cremated.

James B. Satterfield, murderer of his brother-in-law, R. H. Hart, paid for his crime with his own life on the gallows in the Fulton county tower at 3:19 o'clock Friday afternoon. He met death unflinchingly and without the slightest tremor. Just before the steel trap was sprung and before the black hood was placed over his head, tears streamed down his face when he spoke of his 17-year-old daughter, Elizabeth. That was the only sign of emotion the man has shown since he learned that the date for his execution had been fixed.

Not until 12 o'clock did Satterfield give up hope that some miraculous intervention would save his life. Not until that time when word was brought to him that the governor had refused a stay of execution for a lunacy examination, did he accept his fate and begin preparations for death that was to come three hours later.

Leaves Death Note.—At the moment when the procession of jail officials with Satterfield in their midst left the cell on the way to the death room, Satterfield handed Bert Donaldson, prison reform worker, a sealed letter, marked with instructions to be opened after his death.

He had completed writing the letter only a few moments before. Bert Donaldson is attached to Solicitor Boykin's office. He was the operative sent to bring Satterfield back to Georgia to face the charge of having murdered his brother-in-law, two years before.

The letter when opened by Donaldson gave a request to cremate Satterfield's body and reiterated the statement made on the gallows that it was Satterfield's hope that he would be the last man to hang in Georgia.

Smiles in Death Room.

Satterfield smiled when he entered the death room in measured step with the deputies. He was dressed in his blue suit and wore a red American beauty in his button hole. Glancing over the faces of those present, he mounted the steps of the gallows, looking backward at the same time at the little group of witnesses as if searching for some one. On the gallows he looked intently at the rope and glanced at the steel trap before him. With the rope dangling before his face, Satterfield spoke for fully fifteen minutes. He

MAY EXTEND TEACHER CERTIFICATES YEAR

A committee of the Georgia Educational association, composed of R. H. Powell, Valdosta State Normal school; T. J. Wooster, state university; J. G. Harrison, Mercer, and Superintendent Willis A. Sutton, Atlanta, appeared before the state board of education Friday requesting the board to hold up for one year the system of certification of teachers which Superintendent N. H. Ballard is trying to put into effect.

Superintendent Ballard's plan, it was held, is of such a nature that it will be next to impossible to fill out and get rated justly the many blanks which he has sent out to several thousand teachers, and to get the new certificates into the hands of these teachers before the opening of schools next fall.

Standards Held Inadequate.

It was further held the professional standards in Superintendent Ballard's

NEW SYSTEM ARE ENTIRELY INADEQUATE.

The board was requested to hold up the new system for this year, so that a better study may be made of standards in other states and of those needed in Georgia. The association committee offered to cooperate with the board in this study.

After extended discussion, the board agreed that for the coming year any county superintendent may continue in operation the certificate now held by any teacher, making it a continuation for one year.

Committee Appointed.

The board appointed a committee of its own members, composed of President Weaver, Superintendent Saxon and Superintendent McCarthy, and it also designated a group of educators to cooperate with this committee to work out a definite set of professional standards to be enacted into the new system, in the place of those considered inadequate in the system now proposed by Superintendent Ballard.

The educators invited to cooperate were: Chancellor D. C. Barrow, Superintendent Ralph Newton, Fort Valley; Superintendent Roland Bower, Bainbridge; Superintendent W. A. Sutton, Atlanta; Professor E. H. Scott, Milledgeville; Professor Ralph Wager, Emory university, and Miss Katherine Dozier, Gainesville.

LIGHT SHOWERS POSSIBLE TODAY, BUREAU PREDICTS

There is a possibility that Atlanta will experience a few showers today, according to the prediction of C. E. von Herrmann, in charge of the local office of the U. S. weather bureau.

However, if the showers come, they will not be heavy, according to Mr. von Herrmann. The temperature will show practically no change, and it is altogether likely that a fair, warm Sunday is in prospect. The showers today, if they come, will be a gift from Texas, where increasing cloudiness was noted Friday.

ARKWRIGHT IS CHIEF OF ELECTRIC ASSN.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 23.—(Special.)—Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, Atlanta, today was elected fourth vice president of the National Electric Light association, one of the largest public utility organizations in the country. This action places Mr. Arkwright in line for the presidency of the association four years hence, the officers being advanced in rotation.

For the past year Mr. Arkwright has served as member-at-large of the national executive committee and for many years he has been active in the upbuilding of the national organization. He is also head of the public relations committee in the southeastern division of the national association.

The selection of Mr. Arkwright marks the first time in recent years that the representative of a southern public utility has been placed in line for the presidency of the national body.

Col. W. L. Peel Heads Reception Committee For Big Trade Meet

A reception committee of 50 Atlantans is being headed by Colonel William Lawson Peel, chairman for the Pan-American commercial congress, to be held in Atlanta, October 1-4.

Colonel Peel is deeply interested in the meeting, which is expected to exert wide influences on foreign trade relations of the United States, and by which Atlanta will be greatly benefited.

John Ashley Jones, Atlanta consul form Panama, and secretary of the Foreign Consul's society, of Atlanta, has been appointed to take active charge of preparations for the international consular conference, which is to be a part of the program at the Pan-American congress.

T. R. Gross, assistant attorney general of Georgia, and president of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club, has issued a statement promising support of this organization to the meeting.

His statement follows:

The Atlanta Foreign Trade club unites most cordially and wholeheartedly, with the chamber of commerce, the Federal Reserve bank, his honor, the governor of Georgia, in endorsing the plan of the southern commercial congress to call a meeting of the Pan-American commercial congress in this city October 1 to 4, 1924.

The development of closer and more fraternal relations between the peoples of the western hemisphere seems to be the most important work that can engage the attention and energy of our people. The proposed congress will afford opportunity for the promotion of such relations; for a better understanding, appreciation and sympathy with the hopes and aspirations of our neighbors of Latin-America.

We, therefore, join most heartily in an endorsement of the project and pledge our aid in every possible manner to the success of the enterprise.

TRUE BILL FOUND IN AUTO KILLING

An indictment charging involuntary manslaughter in the death of little Foster Tinsley, 10-year-old who was run down by an auto truck May 7, was returned by the Fulton county grand jury Friday against Oscar H. Adams, alleged driver of the car.

The Tinsley boy, who resides on Russell road, was returning home from the R. J. Guinn school, with a number of companions when he was run down.

Adams contended that the boy darted in front of his truck and that it was impossible to keep from striking him. He claimed he was driving at a slow rate of speed.

A companion of the Tinsley boy, it is said, tried to throw the child's cap across the road and when it fell in the road he ran to get it, being struck before he could get out of the pathway of the car.

Lieutenant J. C. Oliver arrested Adams, who was released under a $1,000 bond.

PRISONER CLAIMS TWO POLICEMEN USED "BLACKJACK"

Charges of W. H. Felton, automobile salesman of Macon, that he was beaten with a "blackjack" without provocation, will be investigated by the police committee of council at its next meeting.

Felton, who was arrested by Patrolmen E. E. Brackett and J. D. Strickland at the auditorium-armory Tuesday night, claims that one of the officers beat him with a "billie." Answering Felton's charges, officers Brackett and Strickland stated that he was only slapped, and that was done when he refused to take his hands from his pockets and resisted arrest. The prisoner was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He forfeited a $6 bond.

SENATE INCREASES FUND ALLOTMENT FOR GEORGIA USE

Washington, May 23.—(Special).—Large additional appropriations for Georgia, beyond those made by the house, are included in the agricultural department appropriations bill passed by the senate Friday.

The appropriation for purchase of national forest lands in northeast Georgia was increased from $600,000 to $1,000,000 at the instance of Senator Harris, who carried a $50,000 additional for developing a method of cheaper production of calcium arsenate; $5,500 more for an investigation as to the best methods of peach canning and packing at Fort Valley; $5,000 for the Georgia coastal plain experiment station at Tifton for tobacco culture and $10,000 additional appropriation under the federal warehouse act to investigate the matter of extending storage facilities to pecans and Georgia cane syrup.

BENNING FOREST BILL HITS SENATE SNAG

Washington, May 23.—(Special).—The Benning national forest bill, providing for administration of forest lands of the Benning military reservation, through the forestry service, is not likely to be enacted this session of congress.

Its expected passage was held up in the senate Thursday night by last minute objection from the war department which had previously approved it, along with the secretary of agriculture, Senator Harris, of Georgia, however, his efforts to get it passed this session.

Fundamentalists Dominant In Presbyterian Assembly

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 23.—Presbyterians in the United States of America at two lengthy sessions cleared the docket today of a dozen routine reports, listened to a renewed appeal for support of an international court of justice, smiled at a jaded session to the Fostick case and opened the way for the expected flood of doctrinal and other bills and overtures at subsequent meetings.

The assembly indulged the work of the Near East relief, authorized appointment of delegates to the twelfth meeting of the alliance of reformed churches throughout the world holding the Presbyterian system, to be held in Cardiff, Wales, next year; and voted approval of an increased budget allowance for the purchase of Bibles for distribution in foreign mission fields.

Again today, as at the opening session Thursday, the fundamentalist influence was predominant, being reflected in the appointments by Dr. Clarence A. MacArthur, moderator, of chairmen of important committees and in his appointment of William J. Bryan to the vice moderatorship.

Liberals Held in Check

No liberal or modernist sentiment peeped through the strong-drawn fundamentalist lines, and the fundamentalists, of whom both Dr. MacArthur and Mr. Bryan are active leaders, were only incident of a victorious march through the doctrinal and other controversial matters when the committee on bills and overtures began making its reports.

Coinciding with the circulation among the nearly 1,000 commissioners of the Chicago Presbytery memorial on war, Dr. Arthur J. Brown, New York, made a strong plea for peace, flayed the alleged interference of certain senators with advancement of the world court program, and demanded that the church place itself on record on the side of international justice. Dr. Brown criticized the senate's stand on the Japanese exclusion section of the immigration bill and asserted such a measure would destroy much of the good accomplished by the Washington arms conference.

The Chicago presbytery petitioned the general assembly to stress four things:

Stress Four Things

The anti-Christian character of the philosophy which imagines or pretends that war is inevitable, the Christian nature of war as a social institution; the positive part peaceful methods of settlement must play in the satisfactory adjustment of international disputes; and the plea of Presbyterian cooperation in a crusade for the outlawry of war—not by example, but by international agreement.

Bishop McCormick noted a trend toward church unity in the recent action of the Methodist church in seeking to bring about a reunion with the denomination's organization in the south. He called attention also to the recent conversations between scholars of the English church and the Roman Catholic, the rapprochement between the Anglican church and the church of Sweden, and the plans now under way for organization of a united church of Canada.

The unity appeal was brought close to the deconstruction by Dr. Swearingen, who told of efforts to bring into closer accord the assemblies of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America and the Presbyterian church in the United States (south).

WARNS OF TENDENCY TO CENTRALIZATION

Charlotte, N. C., May 23.—Warning that the American nation may share the fate of ancient Rome unless the tendency toward centralization of power in this country is checked, was sounded here tonight by D. R. Crissinger, controller of the currency and governor of the federal reserve board, addressing a group of bankers and other business men of North and South Carolina at a dinner conference held under the auspices of the Charlotte chamber of commerce.

"We want decentralization," declared Mr. Crissinger. "We want more states' rights. We do not want the financial power centered in New York or in Washington. If the tendency continues, our democratic form of government will disappear and destruction will overwhelm us, just as it overwhelmed ancient and despot Rome. You citizens and other American citizens are today paying out millions of dollars to provide luxuries for the idle and useless offices and men in Washington."

Pointing out that more than half of the world's gold is now in the vaults of the treasury and sub-treasuries of the United States, Mr. Crissinger urged that some of this yellow metal be released to financial centers in Europe, and that a world gold standard be established to the end that financial conditions be stabilized and financial values reestablished.

Speaking of his impressions of this section of the south, Mr. Crissinger predicted that the time is not far distant when we shall be compelled to refer to the 'industrial south' instead of the 'north,' and added that "what I have seen in this section of the south today has convinced me that a new south has arrived."

COOLIDGE'S COLD YIELDS TO REST, GAS TREATMENT

Washington, May 23.—A bronchial cold, from which President Coolidge has been suffering for a week, has yielded finally to medical treatment and rest, and the chief executive today, for the first time since last Saturday, went through with all of his engagements.

Mr. Coolidge felt so much better that he not only did a full day's work, but he insisted on fulfilling a promise made several months ago to attend the opening night of the Congressional Country club, an organization of Washington officials and citizens which has built a fine club house several miles outside of Washington, in Maryland.

The president believes that chlorine gas treatments, three of which he took at the army medical center, benefited him greatly, although yesterday's treatment, because of an increased amount of gas, resulted in slight reaction.

SHOULDER BONE OF MRS. WILSON IS FRACTURED

Washington, May 23.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson fell and slightly fractured a small bone in one of her shoulders on her recent visit to friends in the country in Virginia. Mrs. Wilson regarded the mishap as of little importance at the time, but as it became more painful, she consented to having an X-ray photograph made; which disclosed the fracture.

Aside from a painful swelling, the widow of the former president is suffering no inconvenience and is up and about her home in active direction of her household affairs as usual.

NEGRO BANDIT SOUGHT

Truck Driver Reports He Was Robbed of $50.

Police Friday night were searching for a negro bandit who early in the morning held up and robbed H. Matthews, negro truck driver for Morris & Co., of about $50. The robbery occurred at Whiteford avenue and Boulevard-DeKalb, officers were told. The bandit stopped upon the running board of the truck when Matthews stopped it to count his money.

Lee Dobbins, a negro boy, was jailed by the police Friday in connection with the theft of electric light bulbs from sign boards. He was seen in the act of removing lamps from the bulletin board by the Spring street viaduct, it is claimed.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION PLANNED BY G. M. A.

Graduates of the Georgia Military academy at a meeting Friday night formulated plans for an Alumni association. George West, a well-known Atlanta lumber man, was elected first president. Plans are being made to raise an endowment fund with a greater G. M. A. in view, the campus to be near Stone mountain.

WOMEN HOLD KEY TO COTTON USAGE

Atlantic City, N. J., May 23.—The consumption of cotton would increase in leaps and bounds "if the women of America would wear more clothes," Stuart Cramer, of Cranston, N. C., president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, said in an address at the annual banquet of the Associated Knit Underwear Manufacturers of America tonight.

He deplored the tendency of the modern woman to wear only undergarments of silk and near silk. Mr. Cramer insisted that if the tax bill is not vetoed by President Coolidge it will bring American industry out of the wilderness. He pointed out that present conditions had caused a curtailment of 40 to 60 per cent in American cotton mills.

"The trouble in the cotton industry is not over-production, but rather under-consumption," he said. "The women of America have developed a strange leaning for silks and near silks in dresses and especially in undergarments. As a manufacturer of cotton, I, of course, do not favor this trend, but I am afraid this sad is going to spread. The alarming part of the situation is that hundreds of thousands of self-supporting women have gone in almost exclusively for silk."

"It is a problem that we and you must face and it is a big problem."

Referring to the alarming decrease in the consumption of cotton, Mr. Cramer said: "The trouble in the cotton industry is not over-production, but rather under-consumption. The women of America have developed a strange leaning for silks and near silks in dresses and especially in undergarments. As a manufacturer of cotton, I, of course, do not favor this trend, but I am afraid this sad is going to spread. ## FISH EXPERIMENT UPSETS THEORIES HELD BY SCIENCE

Chicago, May 23.—A whole shelf of scientific theory was upset and incidentally some of the widely broadcast beliefs of William Jennings Bryan concerning the evolutionary processes of Mammalia and Platypodius, of the were exploded when Papa Xiphophorus, an aquarium of the University of Chicago, announced the birth of two baby fish, apparently unlike all other fish in existence, except that they can swim.

Persistently for five years, Dr. A. W. Bellamy, of the university zoology department, has been going about making matches for fishes, hoping the stock would reward his efforts with a species unheard of on land or sea. Until Xiphophorus and Platypodius fell in love, the professor didn't have any success.

The youngsters bear no more resemblance to papa and mama than a wild goose does to a bantam rooster. Both are black, double-chinned and sub-aquatic, which, according to their godfather, Professor Bellamy, has caused papa to regard them with polite skepticism.

"One coming across them in nature," said Dr. Bellamy, "would undoubtedly classify them as a new species." Also, they refute William Jennings Bryan's fundamental claim that there can be no species in nature, for here it has been done and it appears that two species, living side by side, have produced an entirely new species.

FURNITURE MEN ELECT OFFICIALS; END STATE MEET

Macon, Ga., May 23.—At the closing business meeting today of the Georgia Retail Furniture association, which has been holding its annual meeting here, officers were elected and Savannah was chosen as the next meeting place. Those elected are W. F. Dorsey, Athens, president; E. N. Short, Savannah, vice president, and O. E. Brunson, Athens, secretary and treasurer. The delegates were given a barbecue at noon at the Idle Hour Country club.

PARDON BOARD HEARS PRISONERS' APPEALS

Tallahassee, Fla., May 23.—The state pardon board held a special meeting today to consider the cases of several prisoners confined in the hospital at the Raiford state prison farm. Members of the board, headed by Governor Hardee, visited the farm late last week to investigate appeals of the prisoners who are said to be in a low state of health, some of them in the last stages of tuberculosis.

SAN ANTONIO PAPER BOUGHT BY HEARST

Charles S. Diehl and Harrison L. Beach, who for more than thirteen years have been managing owners of The Light, ceased their direction and control with the change in ownership.

The nation-wide chain of papers known as the Scripps-Howard Newspapers run a similar bureau in Washington to The Constitution's Information Bureau. One of these papers, The Baltimore Post, recently ran a tabulation showing the number of letters received by each paper during a single week. The table of figures presented by The Post at this time is presented below.

The Constitution's Washington Bureau for the same week listed 1,782 letters—proof positive of the popularity of this bureau of The Constitution and of the closeness with which its readers study its columns.

SENATE ACQUITS WHEELER, 56 TO 5

Washington, May 23.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, indicted by a federal grand jury in his home state, was given an overwhelming vote of confidence today by his colleagues in the senate.

Sweeping aside two proposals to defer expression as to guilt or innocence until after the court trial, the senate adopted, 56 to 5, the majority report of its investigating committee exonerating the prosecutor of the Daugherty committee of the charge of accepting a fee to practice before the interior department after his election to the senate.

Eighteen republicans and the two farmer-labor senators joined with 36 democrats in favor of the resolution approving the majority report submitted by Senator Borah, chairman of the investigating committee. The five opposing the resolution were Curtis, Phipps, Spencer, Sterling and Willis, all republicans.

Beat Sterling Resolution. The proposals under which the senate would not have expressed itself as to guilt or innocence were put forward by Senators Sterling, of South Dakota, a member of the investigating committee, and Spencer, of Missouri, that by Senator Sterling, which specified that no question should be raised as to Senator Wheeler's qualifications to sit in the senate, was rejected 58 to 5.

Senator Spencer's resolution would have limited the senate to a statement that no facts had been developed in the inquiry which would disqualify Senator Wheeler from continuing his seat. It was rejected 56 to 8.

The balloting came after nearly three hours of debate in which Senator Sterling, author of a minority report holding that with the facts before it the grand jury was justified in voting an indictment, became the storm center of attack from both sides of the chamber.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, declared that every honest citizen, acquainted with the facts, knew that Senator Wheeler had been "framed" because of his activities in pressing the investigation of the department of justice, and asserted that senators would be "driven and carried" if they took refuge behind Senator Sterling's resolution.

Johnson Defends Wheeler. Declaring upon the testimony adduced before the committee "no reasonable man on earth can say Senator Wheeler is guilty of the indictment is justified," Senator Johnson, republican, California, declared it would be "cowardly" for the senate not to go on record in vindication of the Montana senator.

Senator Sterling joined with Senator Spencer in expressing the hope that when he came to trial Senator Wheeler would be able to refute every one of the charges made against him.

"But it's not fair," he added, "for us to sit here as a trial jury to determine guilt or innocence."

Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, a member of the investigating committee, declared that he had no more reprehensible thing than for a senator to be harrassed or "blackmailed" when he "dared to see that the party in power is controlling the public business fairly and honestly."

Referring to an argument of Senator Sterling that the senate should not prejudice the court trial, Senator Swanson charged that the South Dakota senator's minority report had been sent to Montana under a government frank for circulation there "to prejudice public opinion."

MERCER SENIORS PORTRAY ODDITIES OF COLLEGE PROFS Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Mercer university's faculty members were given an opportunity to see themselves as the students see them in class Friday night when "The Oddities of the Professors" was presented in caricature fashion by the senior class of Mercer.

The stage was set for the contest of the radio broadcasting station through which the performance was broadcasted. The "take-off" of the faculty is an annual affair at Mercer, given by each graduating class.

OKLAHOMA BANK IS ROBBED TWICE IN THREE DAYS Burbank, Okla., May 23.—Three handouts today held up the Burbank State bank for the second time in three days and the fourth in its history. They looted the tills, vaults and safe, held five employees at bay and escaped in an automobile. No estimate of the loss was given, although officials asserted the institution had been "cleared out."

Two masked bandits entered the bank Wednesday, locked four employees and a customer in the vault, and escaped with $2,000.

BAHAMAS ERECT RYE DISTILLERY TO SUPPLY U. S. New York, May 23.—People in the Bahamas are determined the threatened shortage of rye whiskey in the United States must not come to pass. To this end, a company has been organized in Nassau and capitalized at $250,000 to erect a rye distillery which will have an estimated output of 1,500 gallons a day, Harcourt Malcolm, attorney for the concern, announced on his arrival from the islands.

The whisky will be aged in bond two years to attain excellent quality and the operation of the distillery has been authorized by the Nassau assembly, according to Malcolm. Malcolm would not discuss the matter of getting the whisky to the United States, intimating that that would not be the work of the company.

FLORIDA DISTRICT ELECTS GEORGIAN TO HEAD LIONS Waycross, Ga., May 23.—Word was received in Waycross today that Will C. Parker, attorney of this city, and president of the Lions' club, was elected district governor for Florida at the convention which has been in session at Montgomery.

The election of Mr. Parker will place him at the head of approximately 25 clubs.

He is now serving his second term as president of the local club and under his administration, the organization has grown to be one of the most influential in the city.

"Golden Rule" Manufacturer SAYS CONSCIENCE WOULD HURT IF HE KEPT IT Distributes $600,000 Bonus

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 23.—Declaring that if he kept the $600,000 stock dividend distributed to him by the A. Nash Tailoring company, this city, his conscience would condemn him as "the greatest robber that ever walked," Arthur Nash, president of the company, announced to his employees today a plan for distributing this stock among them.

Tuesday the company declared a 100 per cent stock dividend. While he refuses to keep the additional $600,000 and plans for its distribution among employees, he makes a condition that the voting power of the stock remain in his hands so that he can control the company for five more years. He states that he desires control only for the purpose of educating the workers to a point where they will be able to take over the management.

Nash announced he desires to distribute the stock dividend in such a way that every employee may own at least four shares of stock. The par value is $100 a share.

Nash operates his business on the "golden rule" plan.

(The following is issued by the committee on church cooperation.)

About five years of age, she was dressed in demure brown—not in the gayly colored rompers or blouse of the city-bred child, but in an old-fashioned, plaited little skirt that fluttered in the spring breeze.

A tiny poke bonnet covered the top of her head, but did not wholly hide curls of gold which told of a mother's deft and tender touch.

From the rim of the preposterous little brown bonnet beamed a joyous, smiling face, like those of the innumerable lost boys thronging, singing, around the throne of our Father in Heaven.

If you are one of those who must be content with clinging only to memories of baby fingers, your heart would have throbbed and hungered at seeing her bit of a hand lost in the roughly-clad man who smiled down at her with the loving look of a father.

That father, evidently a farmer, was taking no chance with traffic. The city had drawn the two, whether only for the day, or to stay, one cannot say, but all of us know that by the coming of such Atlanta is being built, and made to grow.

As the two passed the corner where the country sought an entrance to the city, a swarm of bees, strangely enough, these gatherers of honey had selected the window of a beauty shop where they swarmed in thousands, with myriads of wings filling the place with a ceaseless humming.

None quarrelled with them for coming. Regardless of stings their value was recognized. They were gladly received.

On an outside window ledge, high above Alabama street, a man with a beard and a hat, looking down at the passing crowd, was helping to get them into a box, while a gaping crowd, standing at a respectful distance, watched, admiring and wondered what would happen to the man without if the swarming bees should lose their temper and fall to stinging.

Things That Sting. That would have meant death to the man. None could have held to his perilous perch far above the street in the midst of a swarm of angry bees. But there was a trial jury to determine guilt or innocence.

Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, a member of the investigating committee, declared that he had no more reprehensible thing than for a senator to be harrassed or "blackmailed" when he "dared to see that the party in power is controlling the public business fairly and honestly."

TRACTORS DIG WORMS Cuthbert Officials To "Monopolize" Randolph Fishing.

Cuthbert, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—"Leave it to the wise heads to make work easy," was the statement of a prominent Cuthbert man today, when he unexpectedly came upon the Cuthbert mayor and staff of councilmen using a fleet of tractors to dig fish bait. Probably the "higher powers" have advance dope on the number of the tiny tribe that lie hungrily in wait for the hooked wiggler, and are determined that bait will not run short at the crucial moment.

That the law makers have a "ring" whereby they propose to capture worms in such wholesale manner that they will have a monopoly on the angling industry, is another theory advanced. "No worms, no fishing," is said to be the motto of the new association.

SHERIFF CANDIDATES IN LEE HOLD DEBATE

Jessburg, Ga., May 23.—An impromptu joint debate among three candidates for sheriff of Lee county marked by considerable bitterness and replete with charges and counter-charges, caused a sensation in political circles here last night.

When he made statements in regard to the other two candidates, Sheriff P. C. Coxwell and G. H. Laramore, they were on hand and answered them.

Hines charged Sheriff Coxwell with non-enforcement of the prohibition law, and Laramore with various alleged acts of law violation. Both denied the charges and made counter-charges against Hines.

THE PULLMAN SURCHARGE.

The senate has approved an amendment to the interstate commerce act abolishing the Pullman surcharge authorized by the commission in 1920.

The law authorizing the commission to permit the imposition of this additional tax upon travelers provided that the commission could, at its discretion, and as soon as the railroads were again upon their feet, recommend its repeal.

The commission has been conducting hearings to this end recently, but has not yet made its recommendations. In the meantime, following early adjournment, the senate has acted in the premises and sent its measure over to the house where, it is hoped, it will be passed.

The necessity for the surcharge, which is 50 per cent of the regular Pullman fare, and which accrues entirely to the carriers as an additional one-way passenger fare for all Pullman chair or sleeping car patrons, has long since been passed. It was imposed shortly after the roads were transferred from government to original private operation, and was intended purely as a subsidy, to be paid by travelers, in order to help the roads regain their pre-war financial status.

The gross from this surcharge alone is around $37,000,000 a year, and though the roads, as a whole, are in better financial condition than they were in the beginning of 1917, with business greater than ever before in their history, they have fought the repeal of the measure. This is not unnatural, but the people, already heavily burdened by war taxes of one kind and another, very justly feel that this tax should be lifted. They were promised that it would be lifted as soon as the financial conditions of the roads warranted, and that time has long since passed.

Prior to the commandeering of the roads in 1917 for war purposes, there was no thought or suggestion of a Pullman surcharge. The roads, not having tasted of such a subsidy, did not covet one. But now that they have it they don't want to give it up.

Under existing economic conditions this surcharge is an unjust, defenseless tax levy upon travelers and should have been abolished months ago.

It is hoped the house will speedily follow the senate's very wise action.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

The stock market, which is generally said to reflect the condition of business, has overshot its mark and the recent depression, it is said, is no more than what republican leaders would have at this time, preceding the convention and the general election.

There is insidious propaganda going over the country, just a hint here and there, that "business conditions are not so good" and these hints are expected to hoodwink the general public into the belief that only by republican success this fall can the country be saved from going to the howl-woes.

Recently Elbert Gary, head of the United States steel trust, in a message to his directors made the prediction that business would gradually find its way back to normal commencing a month before or just a month after the general election in November. And he has a very level business head.

Business conditions are not bad, neither are we riding on any great wave of prosperity; nor is the continuance of the republican administration necessary to save this country from "the fearful cycle of depression" of which the propagandists are talking.

What business needs is a rest from congress and from politics, a liberal foreign policy and a strengthened confidence of the people in the integrity of our governmental institutions.

PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS.

Atlanta will be host to the Pan-American Commercial congress October 1-4 and there will be gathered here not only business leaders and statesmen from all parts of the United States, but also the diplomatic and consular representatives of many Latin-American countries. Delegations of the agencies of government and business of these countries will also be present.

The Pan-American congress will be held under the auspices and direction of the Southern Commercial congress, an organization that had its birth in Augusta, and that held its annual convention in Atlanta in 1911, attended by thousands of delegates and addressed by many speakers of national renown, among whom were Roosevelt, Taft and Woodrow Wilson.

Proclamations announcing the Pan-American congress have been issued by Governor Walker, Mayor Sims and Governor Welborn, of the federal reserve bank of the sixth district. Statements of approval and carrying the pledge of cooperation have been issued by the chamber of commerce of Atlanta and the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club.

There is a complete unification of the business interests with the object of securing a maximum result in building direct ties of trade and finance between Atlanta, the commercial, industrial and financial capital of a great southeastern area, and the countries of Latin America.

The Pan-American congress will inspire renewed interest and awaken enthusiasm in the subject of foreign trade relations, too lightly considered and often ignored by local and provincial interests. The day is fast approaching when a positive necessity will arise for a clear understanding as to the relation of foreign markets to the agricultural and industrial prosperity of the south and the nation. Reciprocal commercial treaties must be negotiated and the easy flow of imports and exports must be established. We must have a market for the surplus of raw products and manufactured goods, the output of our fields and factories, and we must study to buy from those to whom we would sell and thus build a stable commerce.

Trade does not follow the flag, but it follows the loan and the economic advantage in the technique of commercial and financial transactions. Commerce is the language of peace and through trade contacts, established on a basis of commercial ethics and mutual advantage, the ties will react into the finer relations of amity, comity and fraternity among nations.

HARVEY TO EDIT POST.

Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, announces that on June 1 Colonel George Harvey, until recently ambassador to Great Britain under the present administration, will become editorial director of that newspaper.

Colonel Harvey is best known to fame as a journalist, and especially as a writer on current political and economic subjects. He was at one time managing editor of The New York World, subsequently entering the magazine field as editor of Harper's Weekly and then as editor of The North American Review. It was in the latter capacity that he possibly became best known, though for a few months preceding his appointment to the diplomatic service he edited and published Harvey's Weekly, which became nationally known for his virile and frequently ultra-partisan political editorial policy.

He was a conspicuous figure in the campaigns of Cleveland and Wilson, breaking entirely with the latter during the first term of his administration. He then became a republican and gave sagacious support to the late President Harding, by whom he was appointed to the premier diplomatic post of the world.

The Washington Post was formerly under the editorship of the late John R. McLean, of Ohio, and was a democratic newspaper. His son, however, made it first an independent paper, and following the election of President Harding it became an ardent administration organ and was supposed to have been the personal mouthpiece of the president.

At the present time it is supporting President Coolidge and the well-known policies of his administration.

The Frankfort Times says it in two lines: "No town is big enough for a reckless drivers' convention."

And here is hoping that we shall not have to lay in a fresh supply of coal to give June a warm welcome.

The peach crop killer arrived with the first warm days, and the spring bootlegger is here, but you don't catch him killing the corn crop.

In spite of contrary weather, let us thank God for what we have of the earth and let Him run it.

Of plundered riches borne away—

TO FALL BACK ON.

No matter how well anything is made, there always comes a time when it shows wear.

And unless something is done at once to repair this wear, the thing itself is sure to fall back upon what reserves it has.

The great ocean liners have reserve engines, and so do the important engines in all the great plants of the world.

In the human body, how wonderfully other parts take up new work when one part gives away!

In the theater, someone must be ready to take the place of any player who might fall in his place. I was told recently that there was in every important theater company an understudy who knew all the parts, so that in emergency might arise whereby the performance would be interrupted.

Somewhat or other, there seems to be something to fall back on for every hopeful person.

In the hungry body there are storehouses of fat that feed and keep the human machine alive for weeks after food has been denied.

The Great Creator throughout all nature seems to have a safety device, everything useful. The trees to give shade and protection from the hot sun. The sun to give life and warmth. The rain to afford a relief from the thirst of the ground. And so on through all the plans of nature.

No matter how badly we seem to be defeated at times, there is always something to fall back on.

And if everything seems to have gone, there still remains the faith that a man may have in himself to the very end which is life!

Georgiagraphs

Georgia has a death rate—among the white people—only 9.2 as compared with the rate of nearly 14 in far-famed California and over 18 in Colorado.

Georgia's legislature as early as February, 1874, set aside 40,000 acres of land for the endowment of a college or university of learning, the University of Georgia.

Georgia's state normal school students—mostly young women—come from homes—over 50 per cent of them—in the rural sections.

Georgia's "outgo" in cash for the past year was away over half a million dollars less than its total "income."

Georgia's center of cane syrup production is in southwest Georgia—recently six counties, Grady, Thomas, Decatur, Lowndes, Brooks and Mitchell supply over 75 per cent of the state's yield of that commodity.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

New York, May 23.—There is a popular Manhattan illusion that great and sudden success must be won in ten minutes with an expense outlay of 10 cents for carfare.

I believe the gloomiest looking men in New York are those who produce the musical revues. Flo Ziegfeld, Earl Carroll, Sam Harris, Irving Berlin and George White have expressions denoting acute melancholia. They do not smile. The corners of their mouths turn down. That is why, no doubt, the yearly cry is for more humor in the revues. Where there used to be the delightful horse play of Weber and Fields there is now a devotion to scenic splendor. The revue specialists would rather create a gasp over a broad-clothed curtain than a loud roar over the whang of a slapstick.

The gloomiest, however, of the lot is Ziegfeld. In several years' almost daily association with him I have seen him smile but twice. Once was when Irving Berlin missed a piano stool. Ziegfeld, if he did not believe, could lay it off. I tried. Yet after many hours with temperamental prima donnas, stubborn comedians and careless chorines it is easy to understand why revue entrepreneurs are in no mood for smiles.

One of the jobs of the New York police commissioner is to deny crime waves whenever there has been a particularly brutal series of murders or hold-ups. He may do it by wire from Palm Beach or in a cable from Nice—but it seems to be a part of his routine.

Three baby girls born to rich New York families in the last month have been named Diana. The most popular name for baby girls in society the past few months is Robert.

DR. OWENS'S SPEAKER IN 'NAVY DAY' PROGRAM

Dr. Clarence J. Owens, of Washington, was principal speaker Friday noon at the American Legion meeting at the Kimball house. Dr. Owens is in Atlanta arranging preliminary plans for the Pan-American commercial congress, to be held in this city in October.

The Legion's program was devoted to observance of national "navy day," and Dr. Owens' talk dealt largely with the great part played by the south in making navies of the world what they are today.

In speaking of the south's leadership in naval history, Dr. Owens told of the "Savannah," the first steam-propelled ship to cross the Atlantic ocean, sailing from Savannah, Ga., to Liverpool, more than a century ago, the trip marking the birth of the present conflict of the sea.

The Confederate ironclad in the historic Monitor-Merrimack fight at Hampton Roads during the civil war, he said, led the way for the development of the modern navy. The first submarine was used by Confederate forces off the coast of the Carolinas during the last part of the civil war.

A large, the most important inventions given modern science also came from a southerner, Dr. James H. Ryan, a native Tennessean, who invented the electro-magnetic wave by which submarines may communicate with each other while submerged.

Sulphuric Acid, Taken in Error, Fatal To Woman

Believing she was taking medicine prescribed by her family physician, Mrs. G. E. Roberts, 43, of 16 Brooks avenue, Friday morning drank sulphuric acid and succumbed to the effects of the poison upon the operating table at the Grady hospital a short while afterward.

The acid, members of the family explained, had been brought home by her son from school and placed in the medicine chest. After she had drunk from the bottle, she sank to the floor in an unconscious condition. Her mother, who found her in this condition, called for a physician.

Besides her husband, a daughter, Miss Ruby Roberts; two sons, Walter and Arthur; and a sister, Mrs. E. G. Duren, of Redan, Ga., survive her. There are also three sisters and four brothers living.

The body is at the chapel of A. S. Turner in Decatur. Funeral arrangements had not been completed late Friday night.

BLACKBURN IS HELD UNDER DRUG CHARGE

Walter Blackburn, 49, of 71 Forsyth street, was committed to jail Friday morning on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

At each contraction or beat the heart pumps something like three ounces of blood. Suppose the mitral valve is damaged and leaks, so that the valve between the left auricle and left ventricle, and is the one most frequently affected—and that a backward leakage of a third of an ounce of blood occurs with each beat. That leaves the general circulation short a little over ten per centum of its regular quota of blood, and a little deficiency like that is scarcely perceptible.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

KEEP THE VALVES CLEAN.

Although it is impossible to grind the heart valves smooth again when they've become roughened or distorted and leaky as a result of a past endocarditis (inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart), such damaged valves do not mean scrapping the engine. Sometimes they actually wear smooth again in the course of a few years—yes, they certainly do, though I would not have admitted this until I saw it happen. But even though I saw it happen, I cannot expect any extraordinary good fortune, the heart is a wonderful engine and as a general rule it has enough reserve power to compensate an ordinary leakage and maintain a fairly efficient circulation, provided the owner treats his heart right.

At each contraction or beat the heart pumps something like three ounces of blood. Suppose the mitral valve is damaged and leaks, so that the valve between the left auricle and left ventricle, and is the one most frequently affected—and that a backward leakage of a third of an ounce of blood occurs with each beat. ## SHOPGIRL ASKS TO BE CERTIFIED NOBLE'S DAUGHTER

Edinburgh, May 23.—A shop girl, Constance Mary Lyon, has petitioned the courts to certify she was the lawful daughter of Robert Ernest Bowles-Lyon, grandson of the thirteenth Earl of Strathmore, nephew of the present earl, and a cousin of the Duchess of York.

Constance claims she was born on December 12, 1904, and that her parents were Hubert Bowles-Lyon and Mary Agnes Hay Smeaton. The girl has adduced evidence to show that she was married on January 14, 1905, and that thereafter the couple had two children. Deborah's pedigree, however, gives the year of the marriage of Hubert Lyon and Mary Smeaton as 1908. Mrs. Bowles-Lyon died in 1914.

Constance claims that when she was an infant her mother handed her over to another woman, whom she paid for caring for her. The woman's son has now testified that he took over the care of Constance when his mother died.

Death Note From Satterfield Urges Gallows' Work Be Ended

When the escort came to Satterfield's cell to conduct him to the death room on the fifth floor of Fulton jail, he handed Bert Donaldson, prison reform worker, a sealed letter, marked: "To be opened after my death." The letter was written a few minutes before he started for the gallows.

The letter is as follows: "Mr. Donaldson, My Fellowman and Brother: "If consistent with the wish of my sister will you use this letter as authority to take possession of my 'remains' and let them be 'cremated.' This manner of burial or disposition of the flesh meets my hearty approval, but may not be understood by many, though I claim it the most sanitary way and the quickest return to 'Mother Earth,' considering all processes and finally winding up at the same stage.

"If she does not agree, allow her to have full possession without any question.

"Brother, I hope this is the last man Georgia will hang, because they are not hanging the man 'guilty' and it is 'no law' when such is the case, and if I get to that future state where my work can be sent back, I will ask God to destroy every gallows in your state of Georgia.

"And Brother Donaldson, we had not traveled far when I saw the light in your eyes and judged you, tried you and found you just what I thought.

"Gee, it's good to mingle with men like that!

"You have added strength to me from time to time.

"And when I turn to God I want to know it just as you use it—a plain, simple, shining life that I know and feel and others can see.

"For I know God will make me so I will understand Him and the use He has for me. If I go I shall remember you among the many friends very often, because I found you to be a man likened unto a hen covering her brood, beating up to spread your wings and help those in trouble.

"In closing your day's work your conscience must be more than pay you for the services rendered and it must be a grand and glorious feeling. May you grow in service, resting in perfect peace and fulfillment of God's work. I will make you my brother before we part.

Lovingly,

"J. B. SATTERFIELD."

his arms and legs. He moved his head sideways so as to allow the noose to slip over his head. The black hood was adjusted and a minute later the trap was sprung and he fell below.

The trap was sprung at 3:10 by Sheriff Lowry. Life was pronounced extinct 11 minutes later.

After the body had dropped below it never quivered or even trembled. The pulse was weakening when the attending medical witnesses approached the dangling body.

Farwell to Relatives.

Half an hour before the solemn march to the death chamber Satterfield said goodbye to his brother Will and to his sister. Though his relatives dropped hysterically and his brother dropped to the floor in a faint, Satterfield himself went through the heart-rending adieu without flinching.

From 12 till 1:30 o'clock Satterfield was in conference with Bert Donaldson, prison reform worker. The conversation was mostly concerned with spiritual matters. He told newspapermen that he had prayed himself at the gallows and declared the execution stable in the far east, thanked his representatives for kindnesses shown him, and declared the exclusion clause of the immigration bill recently passed by congress did not show the real heart of America. That the nation's real sentiments, he asserted, were revealed in its efforts to alleviate suffering after the earthquake disaster.

Tokio's social and official calendar for the next fortnight is crammed with functions in honor of the retiring ambassador.

The impending departure of Woods is regarded by the Japanese press as a public eye than the situation created by the passage of the immigration bill and is focusing attention on the ambassador, unofficially affecting Japanese sentiment towards the United States.

The laudatory expressions of officialdom, the public and the press, regarding Woods are being at least momentarily, to offset the hostility that exclusion has generated.

MASKED BANDIT STAGES GUNFIGHT WITH HIS VICTIM

Savannah, Ga., May 23.—A masked negro entered the Nassau restaurant this morning at 5:30 o'clock, carrying a revolver, and shot and killed a man named George Vlasos, who was sitting at a table.

As the negro departed Vlasos grasped a revolver lying on the counter and went into the street to pursue him. He reached the outside of the restaurant door and saw the fleeing negro looking back. Vlasos shot at him twice, and the negro, stopped, and with deliberate aim, fired at his victim three times. None of the bullets from either weapon took effect.

The negro again started running west on York street and disappeared into a lane. He escaped.

THREE JAPS SLAIN IN LAND DISPUTE; KILLER SUICIDES

Los Angeles, Cal., May 23.—Three Japanese were shot to death and their killer committed suicide near Zelen, several miles northwest of here today, after a dispute over land.

Nanichi Wakamura, lessee of the land in dispute, is said by deputy sheriff to have shot down Mehet Yoshii and the latter's wife, after which he returned home, shot his own wife and then committed suicide.

veals his whole gigantic, magnificent body.

He changes subject and stands thinking for a moment. His hands stray to his collar and tie and his fingers tap the bow of his tie as if he wanted to reassess himself that it was sitting straight.

Tears for His Daughter.

When he talks about his daughter he begins to weep and he bends over slightly, resting his two hands on his two knees looking hard and earnestly in the face of the men below.

He fumbles for his handkerchief and dries his eyes.

He is not the only man in tears. Others are crying. There is a sickening, choking atmosphere in that room of cement and steel. Some of the men standing with him on the gallows turn ghastly pale, for the moment is approaching, the dreadful, nauseating moment.

"And like my little girl said: 'God let me die. So I say to you now, I am ready, let me die and go to her, those are his last words. His head is buried in his handkerchief. The mighty frame shakes with a few sobs, while another ruthless formality of the court prolongs the agony, the reading of the death sentence.

Now Satterfield is ready. He steps forward with a smile. Right on the steel trap. He wets his mouth with his tongue. And when he feels someone tugging at his sleeve from behind to bind his arms, he hastily pushes his handkerchief in his trouser pocket.

Tied, Hands and Feet.

They tied him, hands and feet. He looks up as the rope is pulled back a little. He stoops forward so that the man who is smaller than he is may put the noose around his neck. The knot is placed in position and the black cap is now pulled over his head. His head is shoved forward to facilitate the procedure. Everything is ready now.

It is dead still in that room. Breaths are coming fast but they are inaudible. Eternities are packed in one single instant. Thoughts are flashing backward and forward. The whole atmosphere is surcharged with horror, with nameless terror. Death, the invisible, glides in. His clammy presence can be felt. He moves to the lever.

Death Claims Own.

Suddenly a hasty movement. Then a slight grating and a sickening thud, all in a flash, and Satterfield's body falls through the hole that has opened under his feet.

But Satterfield did not below the scaffold. He died on top there. The law did not kill him. He killed his own death. In that moment when he said "I am ready" the spirit was already taking flight from the body.

The gaunt frame is dangling below. Doctors hasten to feel his pulse. One medical man unfastens the shirt of the inert form with the gruesome black hood and places a stethoscope on the heart. The doctor looks at his watch. Some are leaving the room.

"He is dead," says someone. It's a loud voice, and it comes with a jar.

That is the end of Satterfield, the orphan boy, who married against the will of his wife's relatives. That's the end of a man who was possessed with great love of life but also with courage to die.

Outside the crowds are waiting motionless, staring toward the top floor. People have been standing in the broiling sun for many hours. And they stand there long after the execution is over.

At 3 o'clock sharp Satterfield left his cell. At three minutes after that he stepped on the scaffold and started speaking. The trap was sprung at 3:10. Shortly after that the ghost of the man crossed the river of death into the land of shades, where he must meet the men he shot two years ago.

What will the meeting be?

But he also will find there his little girl of 12. Woods is a man with a tender lovingness, with a soft kindness and overwhelming affection only one minute before his neck snapped in ruin under his own weight.

What will that meeting be?

WOODS SAYS GOOD-BYE TO JAP NEWSPAPERS

Tokio, May 24.—At the invitation of the press, Woods is being escorted by Japanese newspapermen to the principal newspaper offices to say good-bye prior to his return to the United States.

In an address to the newspapermen, he emphasized the necessity of Japanese-American cordiality and pledged his efforts to that end. The ambassador urged the Japanese press to join in an effort to maintain stability in the far east, thanked his representatives for kindnesses shown him, and declared the exclusion clause of the immigration bill recently passed by congress did not show the real heart of America. That the nation's real sentiments, he asserted, were revealed in its efforts to alleviate suffering after the earthquake disaster.

Even convicted prisoners will be released on revision of their sentences by judges, but DeValera and the other republican leaders will be retained in custody for the time being.

WORLD FLIERS CHANGE PLANS; SPEED FLIGHT

Tokio, May 23.—The American army aviators flying around the world have changed the plan which will fly on to Kushimoto probably next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The change was made in the interest of speed, the flight already being days behind its schedule. As a consequence of it, the time spent in illness while Japanese navy mechanics install new motors and overhaul the American planes will be reduced to almost nothing, as an elaborate program of entertainment had been arranged for the fliers and now has been compressed so as to occupy most of the time at their disposal. The Americans express themselves as eager to press on, and declare they will fly again as soon as possible.

$452,000 for enforcement of the packers and stock yards act and $135,000 for federal highways.

MALARIA SPREADING RAPIDLY IN RUSSIA

Leningrad, Russia, May 23.—Malaria and other diseases are spreading alarmingly throughout Russia. There is an acute shortage of quinine and other essential drugs and the authorities are finding it difficult to combat epidemics.

According to a report presented to the Epidemiological Congress here yesterday, there were more than 6,000,000 cases of malaria in Russia last year, also 300,000 cases of spotted typhus, 250,000 of recurrent typhus and 50,000 of septic.

ONLY FLIMSY CLUES IN KIDNAPING CASE

Joseph Springer had announced that the boy's body showed evidences of an attack by a pervert.

Later, however, after Coroner's Chemist William McNally had made a careful examination of the body and he and Dr. Springer had conferred regarding their investigations, Dr. Springer declared that a more thorough examination had failed to disclose any marked evidence of proof that the boy had been maltreated.

Coroner Wolff frankly admitted that he had been unable to discover the cause of young Franks' death.

There were some evidences of strangulation. The skull had been smashed in with a weapon that might have been a batelnet.

Franks may have been killed by poison, the coroner said, but he hastened to add that proof of this so far was lacking. A careful analysis of the boy's vital organs are under way.

Chief Hughes bolstered up the perverted theory of the crime by expressing belief that the "educated person who killed Franks concealed the kidnapping to deceive Franks' family and the police."

None Saw Kidnaping.

No one saw the boy kidnaped, and Chief Hughes pointed out that it would have been difficult for any one to have seized him in broad daylight on a crowded street, with many of his young friends in the immediate vicinity. The boy last was seen as he left the grounds of Harvard school late Wednesday afternoon to go to his home.

A story told by Irvin Hartman, 10, a pupil in the sixth grade at the Harvard school, that he had seen Franks kidnaped and whisked away in a big gray car, was discredited on investigation.

Murder of Hart Resulted From Quarrel Over Estate

J. B. Satterfield, who was hanged Friday, was convicted in Fulton county superior court in August, 1923, and sentenced to hang for the murder of R. H. Hart, his brother-in-law, in December, 1921.

The killing followed a quarrel between the two men over the administration of the estate of Satterfield's deceased wife, which had been placed in the hands of Hart, according to testimony at the trial. Hart was slain as he crouched behind a counter in a small candy shop near his home, having been chased from his home by Satterfield, records show.

Satterfield's dissatisfaction over the way Hart handled the estate of his wife resulted in ill-feeling between the two men and was given as the chief cause which led up to the quarrel which resulted in Hart's death. Following the death of Satterfield's wife in a Florida city, and after Hart, her brother, had been named executor of the estate, Satterfield moved to California. Hart came to Atlanta.

Returns to Atlanta.

During Christmas week in 1921, Satterfield returned to Atlanta and went to the home of Hart to discuss matters concerning the estate, testimony showed. A quarrel followed and Satterfield is said to have drawn a revolver from his pocket, and Hart, a cripple, ran from the house.

Mrs. Hart and her two children grappled with Satterfield to prevent his giving pursuit. However, he broke away and chased the fleeing man into a small candy shop nearby. Hart tried to hide behind a counter in the shop and as he crouched in a corner, Satterfield poured a stream of bullets into his body, according to testimony at the trial.

Satterfield escaped after the shooting, but remained in Atlanta several days, and while police were searching for him, he wrote a letter purporting to give his side of the slaying. He left the city and was at liberty more than a year. He was and Richard Williams, instructors, were able to throw little or no light on the killing and their questioning was completed.

Walter Wilson, another instructor, was requested to go to the Walnut avenue police station for further questioning, as the police wished to ask him about some apparently conflicting statements he had made.

The typewritten letter was found to have been pounded out on a folding type of machine. The pair of glasses found on Franks' face did not belong to him, but to some other boy. They were not adult glasses.

ALLEGED NOTE FROM YOUTH IS RECEIVED.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Chicago, May 23.—A note addressed to the police, and bearing the initials of Robert Franks, asking the police to rescue him quickly was found tonight about a block from where the body was discovered, but it is believed by the police to have been placed there after the body was found by some one who read of the case.

"Dear officers," the note read, "find me quick. Am in danger. Find me quick."

A new theory was injected into the case tonight when oculists who examined the spectacles which form such an important piece of evidence declared they probably were owned by a woman. They said they were led to this belief by the short shafts, and by the fact that the spectacles were narrow, but with a rather wide saddle. No woman had been mentioned in the case.

New Element of Mystery.

A fresh circumstance of mystery was revealed tonight when postal authorities examined the envelope of 25 hours between the time the letter was received at the central postoffice and the time the special delivery man reached the city delivery department. The front of the letter showed it was received at the central office at 1 a. m., May 21, at which time the boy was safe in bed at home. On the reverse side, the stamp of the delivery department showed the time 2 a. m., May 22. Postal officials said it was scarcely possible that a special delivery letter would be in the central office for 25 hours and expressed opinion that a clerk had inadvertently used a May 21 stamp on it.

Stomach Shows No Poison.

A coroner's chemist announced tonight that his analysis of the boy's stomach had failed to reveal traces of any poison. The heavy metal poisons, he said, are usually discovered in a short examination, such as has been made. There is a remote possibility, he said, that a more complete examination might reveal the presence of a heavier alkaline poison. It will be several days before such traces can be found, he added. Coroner Oscar Wolff, after hearing the report, said he was satisfied the boy was kidnapped for money alone.

"The only explanation, I feel, which covers all the facts of the murder," he said, "is this—the boy's car was stolen after the kidnapping. I keep him quiet, probably while one of them was away trying to get money from the father. It is also a possibility that the kidnappers did not intend to kill the boy."

Witness at Inquest.

The boy's father, the man who found his body, policemen first to reach the scene and a few others connected with the preliminary investigation testified at the inquest, but brought out no new facts.

Detectives went tonight to the private school where the boy was a student, accompanied by a typewriter expert. They will examine every typewriter at the school to determine if the letter to the father demanding the ransom was written on a school typewriter.

The police believed for a time tonight they had valuable information concerning the kidnappers, when an oculist said he had recently treated a man of the name of Johnson, the name signed to the ransom letter, whom he suspected of being mentally unbalanced, and for whom he had prescribed spectacles.

Chatham To Produce
60,000 Barrels

Of Potatoes in 1924

Savannah, Ga., May 23.—It is estimated that more than 60,000 barrels of potatoes will be produced in Chatham county this season. If the season had been good, there would have been from 80,000 to 90,000 barrels produced, growers state.

The best grade of potatoes are now selling at $7 a barrel. There are also some seconds, but a conservative estimate of the average value would be $5 a barrel.

There are at this time approximately 1,000 laborers engaged in digging potatoes, and they will be employed for another week.

About half of the land from which the potatoes are being gathered is already planted in corn.

New York, May 23.—Cotton contracts closed at 28.91, unchanged from the previous day, but with a slight advance in the futures market. The market was quiet and steady, with no significant change in the price of cotton.

The market opened easy and 17 to 20 points lower, reflecting bearish and somewhat better crop and weather news. Notices on about 11,000 bales for May delivery made the total amount delivered so far this season a record of 90,000 bales. The decline, which carried July to 28.90 and October to 28.85, attracted a good deal of buying from Wall Street interests, following private advice which was given of cool night and backward condition of the crop. Demand also was stimulated by a couple of private foundation reports, one of which was that the other 65.4, with the average increase estimated at only 3 to 4 percent. This buying advanced prices to the highest of the day from 28.85 to 28.91, but the market was not sustained, and prices fell to 28.85 by 10:30 a. m.

TWO-SIDED AFFAIR AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, May 23.—The cotton market was a very active, nervous and two-sided affair today with fluctuations comparatively narrow considering the volume of business done. May was depressed by the comparative low tender in New York and the expectation of liberal tenders here before the month finally goes out. At lowest May traded 57 points down, July declined 52 points, and October 55 points up from the low and lost a portion of the recovery in the afternoon. October dropped 17 points during the day, but recovered 10 points later to 25.33, and eased off again during the afternoon. The other new crop months followed much the same course as October. The market showed net gains for the day of two to four points on active months.

The market was easier in the first part of the morning on favorable weather overnight and comparatively liberal tenders in New York, with notices for 6,800 bales were issued. Only 500 bales were tendered locally, but the rapid increase in the certificate of tender in New York and the month goes out. Trading in May ceased in New York at noon today, the month going out at 31.98. After a decline of more than 10 points, July and less than 8 1/2 a bale on new crop months, the market rallied at first on an official forecast for unfavorable weather and later on low condition estimates.

After advancing $1.50 to nearly $3 a bale from the low, the market eased off on end of the week realizing and on a rumor that a disagreement existed between the comparative secretary Mellon over the tax reduction bill which might lead to the secretary's resignation. Despite the reaction of the afternoon the market retained a small net gain at the close.

And Reviews

Stock Letter.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, May 23.—Perhaps when the tax bill is out of the way and Congress adjourns we may get a little advance. At any rate old lot investors are around picking up bargains and that is usually a forerunner of an upward move.

Cotton Letters.

E. B. NORMAN & CO.

New Orleans, May 23.—Weather influences will be permanent and on the present outlook they are likely to be a bullish factor.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, May 23.—Pending evidence of a decided trend from the current level we believe the market is in a waiting position. Last Saturday, July 17, 1923, October 15, 1923.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, May 23.—Probability of more low condition estimates and prospects of more unfavorable weather make the buying side look best.

HUBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, May 23.—A whole situation as far as cotton is concerned is not satisfactory and it will require a substantial increase in supply to warrant any further decline in the price of goods or through the summer goods continue to be sold at a profit. The private report made the condition of the crop 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

POST & FLAG.

New York, May 23.—June weather is a much needed factor in the cotton market. The next six days may well be considered that a very large crop may be expected for a time, but will not develop until the middle of the month. Purchases on reactions are indicated with a large degree of caution in following advances.

Wild Willie.
Willie, helping mother cook,
Lost her silver button-hook.
"But," he said, "I've got a hunch
We'll find it somewhere in the lurch."

Willie, by the merest chance,
Found a flask in papa's pants;
"Mercy on us," mother cried,
"I've turned red and tried to hide."
—George S. Chappell.

Wild Willie.
(In the wake of George S. Chappell)
Willie, bless his curly hair,
Parked his gum beneath his chair.
Mama found it on her heels;
Now Willie stands to eat his meals.
—Mrs. D. C. Brown.

Kiss, not when it is expected, but when it is merely hoped for.
That is art.

The Remedy.
Kris: "Darn it, every time I take a girl out in the car she sheds a hairpin and next day my wife finds it."
Kross: "Do like me."
Kris: "How's that?"
Kross: "Only go out with bobbedhaired ones."
—Phil H. Armstrong.

The Inquisitive Reporter.
Our inquisitive reporter yesterday
asked this question of four people chosen at random:
"Since it has been conclusively proved that the ideals of democracy are vastly superior in every way to the monarchial form of government,
do you see any plausible or satisfying reason why four kings should beat a royal flush?"

Jackson Johnson, window cleaner:
"No, sah, boss; these heah fock-pots are too complicated for this heah nigger, but how about a little game of craps?"

Melissa Crane, social service worker: "Don't you worry, young man.
If you try to do the right thing, conscience will lead you."

Florence Wilson, perfume demonstrator: "You don't say? Well, it just goes to show you're never too young to learn."

James Fred, architect: "Certainly not. No gentleman would ever strike

a woman."

Jingle-Jangles.
Any funny, nonsensical rhyme that will make Fun Shop readers laugh is a jingle-jangle. It must be in two lines. For example:
After winter comes the spring;
Tonsils hurt like everything.
II.
Cows have horns and sheep have wool;
Dentists have a lot of pull.

You will undoubtedly contribute funnier jingle-jangles than these. Address them separately to Jingle-Jangle department, The Fun Shop, Atlanta Constitution.

Railroading.
The Carrs had recently had their sixth baby, reports C. B. Gill.
Mrs. Carr, who was the wife of a train man, was going down the street
when Mrs. Flynn called to her.
"Oh, Mrs. Carr, congratulations. I hear ye have a new baby."
"Yes," said Mrs. Carr, "an' I hope
it's the caboose."

Verses and Reverses.
(By Samuel Hoffenstein)
I.
The camel tail
Is an animal
For many things remarks-bal:
He chews his cud,
And he walks with a thud,
And he seldom needs to water his head.

He wears a grin
That would frighten sin,
And his back turns out where it should turn in.
II.
I'm sorry for the people pent
In grimy cities, slaves of rent;
Who need a thousand eyes and feet
To get across a simple street;
I wish these people all could go
Where the untrammelled breezes blow,
And lambs and calves and other pups
Nibble at the buttercups.
I wish they all could go away
And watch the striding lions play
Where other gods are served than Self.

III.
The hippopotamus and gau,
The ant, the zebra, and the emu,
How they must gossip in the zoo
About such freaks as me and you!

Mah Jongg would be a good game
if one would throw everything away
and keep the dice.

Hazel Concentrates.
One: "Hazel is a girl of one sport."
Two: "Who is he?"

The Half-Time Wife

BY VIOLET DARE

CHAPTER 12.

Happiness at Last.

"What is it? What's the matter?"
"Oh, Geoffrey," exclaimed Mrs.
Vale, clinging to him with both hands.
"This is dreadful. Suzanne was going through my things—she was robbing me."
"Geoff, I wasn't," cried Suzanne.
"You were looking through my dressing case."
"Yes, I was," Suzanne answered.
Linda Vale's accusation, but faced her husband, who was gently but firmly detaching Mrs. Vale's hands from his arm. "She has some papers of yours,
papers that mean a great deal to you.
She must have stolen them. They are the letters you told me had disappeared, the letters that would prove you had not been mixed up in your partner's illegal transactions."
"I wanted to get them. So I came up here, but they weren't in her dressing case. That's what I was looking for. I wasn't going to rob her of anything that was really hers."
"You have those letters of Healy's?"
demanded Geoffrey, turning to Linda Vale.

She said nothing.
"Tell me, have you got those letters?" he insisted. "I should have expected you when Suzanne told me weeks ago that you were able to open the safe here at the house, but somehow I didn't."
"You needn't try to accuse me in an effort to shield your wife," Mrs.
Vale retorted. "I don't know anything about those letters."

"Oh, mother!"
All three turned abruptly as Lolita spoke from the doorway. Dick stood beside her, his motoring coat thrown back.
"We heard you scream just as we came up the drive," Lolita went on.
"Evidently we were just in time.
Mother, you know you have those letters. Why don't you give them to Mr. Atwood?"

"I don't know what you're talking about," Mrs. Vale exclaimed. "Suzanne was going through my things, and I won't have it. Why, you're trying to make out that I'm a thief!"
"You tried to be one the other day," Suzanne cut in. "You were going to steal those earrings at the exhibition in the hotel, and then when the detective threatened to search us all you dropped them on the floor. Lolita and I both saw you."

Linda Vale knew when she was beaten. But she turned on Suzanne such a look of hate that the girl shrank back in a corner. To Geoffrey she appealed for pity, even in that last moment, but his gaze was stern.

"Oh, very well," she said at last,
with a little shrug of her shoulders.
"You'll find them in the dressing case—you weren't smart enough to do it," she added to Suzanne. "There's a false lining; they're under that." She waited until Geoffrey had brought them forth triumphantly, then swept from the room.

"Oh, Geoff, are we really through with her?" asked Suzanne. "I don't see, though, even now, why you let her run over me so."

"Because I thought you didn't care about me, and would prefer to deal with me through her," he answered.
"For such a brilliant man you're very unreasonable and very dense," she told him. "I should think you'd have known better from the first."

The next morning Lolita came to the house again.

"Everything's simply wonderful for us," she told Suzanne. "Geoffrey's going to let Dick go to work right away, and we're to live in the little apartment, and nobody else in the world is as lucky as I am."

Suzanne knew that she was wrong.
But all she said to Lolita was, "I've never been so happy in my life, myself."

And that fact was apparent. Everyone seemed to notice it, from the chauffeur to Mrs. Haynes.

"Things should have been this way in the beginning," Geoffrey told her as they drove home that evening. "I'll never be dense again."

"Certainly you won't," she laughed.
"When Mrs. Vale was with you in the office I was hardly a half-time wife, but now that the whole job is mine, you'll never have any doubts about me again."

THE END.

What day and hour are most appropriate for a formal dinner?
Any day of the week except Sun-

When was the great famine in Ireland? What caused it? What was Ireland's loss in population as a consequence?

The great famine took place in the years 1845-1847; the cause was the failure of the potato crop. It has been estimated that Ireland lost about two millions of her population from famine, disease in consequence of famine, and emigration.

How hot does water become in a boiler? How hot is the steam in the boiler?

At 50 pounds pressure both water and steam will have a temperature of about 298 degrees; at 100 pounds, about 337 degrees. The steam and water are at the same temperature, or may be considered so for all practical purposes.

Laboratory experiments show that water near the fire is a very little bit hotter than steam at some distance from the fire.

When did Mrs. U. S. Grant die and where is she buried?

She died in 1902, and, in accordance with Grant's wishes, is interred with him, in his tomb in New York City.

How did the word "scapegoat" originate?

In the Jewish ritual, a goat which was brought to the door of the tabernacle, where the high priest laid his hands upon him, confessing the sins of the people, putting them on the head of the goat, after which the goat was sent into the wilderness, bearing the iniquities of the people.

How did the word handicap originate?

This word was spelled handicapp.

handy-i-cap, and hand-in-cap. The last was probably in reference to the drawing of lots from a cap. Thus its original meaning had to do with an old sport in which one person offered to exchange some article for one belonging to another, the difference in value being determined by an umpire.

This word has in this way come to mean figuratively, to place one at a disadvantage.

Why is leaf mold a good fertilizer?

The composition of leaf mold varies according to the kind of leaves and the nature of decomposition. Leaf mold is not valued as a fertilizer for the amount of nitrogen, potash, etc., that it contains, as the percentage is very low, but because it makes the soil loose and loamy and retains moisture longer than any other soil.

Coconut Products.

The best productive years of the coconut are from the fifth year to the fortieth although it will live and produce up to 70 or even 100 years.

The principal products of the coconut palm are raw nuts, from which the desiccated meat is made; copra, or the dried kernel, from which oil is expressed; poonac, or the residue left after the oil is pressed from the copra; and coir, or the fiber of the woody husk. The uses of these products, as well as of the entire palm, are almost innumerable. It is said that a vessel may be built and laden entirely from the coconut palm.

From the sap a liquid is obtained called toddy. This is allowed to ferment, and the strong liquid obtained is called arrack.—From Adventure Magazine.

On Terrace of Piedmont Club

Mrs. Willis Eugene Ragan entertained at the first al fresco party of the season given Friday afternoon on the terrace of the Piedmont Driving club, the occasion assembling 150 of the young married contingent of society.

Mrs. Ragan, the lovely hostess, and her mother, Mrs. Porter King, received the guests on the picturesque terrace, standing before a background formed by pedestal roses holding white peonies and roses. The terrace presented a scene of unusual beauty, with pink geraniums, heliotrope, petunias, and vines growing in the window boxes.

The stone walls, covered with Dorothy Perkins rose vines, with the clusters of pink-tipped buds, formed a beautiful background for the festoon of gaily-colored Japanese lanterns. Adorning the center of the exquisitely appointed oblong tea table, which was overlaid with a Venetian lace cloth, was a large silver loving cup holding foxgloves, gladioli, lilies and roses, double cornflowers, iris, pansies, snapdragons and sweetpeas in lavender and pink shades. Smaller loving cups filled with these same spring flowers were placed at either end of the table.

Slender silver compotes tied with pink tulle and clusters of pastel shaded flowers held mints embossed with Dresden flowers and the cakes were daintily embossed in pastel shaded flowers. The punch bowls were embellished in pink roses and lavender iris, and assisting in the entertainment of the guests were a group of the hostess' friends.

Mrs. Ragan wore a beautiful gown of hyacinth blue chiffon over flesh-colored georgette crepe, trimmed in Venetian lace, the girdle of deeper blue. ### HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Wilted Vegetables.
Lettuce or spinach that has become slightly wilted can be restored entirely by its standing for an hour in cold water in which the juice of half a lemon has been squeezed.

Bent Needles.
Bent celluloid knitting needles can be straightened readily by dipping them into hot water. Be sure to keep the needles away from any gas flames during the heating process.

Remove All Acid.
When cleaning brass or copper with acids, be sure to remove all traces of acid, washing the articles in clear water after polishing. Otherwise the tarnish will soon reappear.

Table Setting.
Forks are always placed at the left of the plate, knives at the right and the spoons to the right of the knives. Salad forks should be placed to the left of the dinner forks and oyster forks to the right of the spoons. Butter knives may be placed on the bread and butter plates or to the right of the spoons. If they are placed to the right of the spoons, oyster forks should be placed to the right of the butter knives.

No. 2158.

In making model 2158 the seamstress has the delight of doing interesting work and of knowing that she will have a more charming and becoming hat than the average woman can afford to purchase. Ribbon-zene is used over a colored coutil design to make the hat two tone. Beige and brown, sand and navy, black and flame or black and white are good combinations. Cauton crepe, taffeta, or satin are the most satisfactory materials to use.

Material Required.
One soft pressed crown, 4 yards brace wire, 1 yard 36-inch material, 1-2 yard elastic net or canvas, 1 cap lining, embroidery materials.

Hat Pattern Order.
This order will bring you pattern and working instructions for making hat illustrated above. Fill in name and address, enclose 25 cents in stamps, postal note or coins—address envelope, Hat Pattern Department, Atlanta Constitution.

BEAUTY CHATS

By Edna K. Forbes

EFFECTS OF CERTAIN TREATMENTS.

Not many of my readers know that one of the best ways to have a clear, fresh face is to take a daily bath. Why, asks one girl, should washing the body make the skin of the face clear? Won't washing the face do that?

It will help. But my young correspondent must remember that the whole body, every day, throws off a surprising amount of waste matter, and that the skin all over, from head to feet, is constantly changing and making itself new again. If the pores are not kept clear by a daily warm, cleansing bath, this waste matter is not so readily thrown off. The pores, some of them anyway, clog up and grow large, blackheads appear, often on the back, most often on the face.

I put one rather careless, young girl through a course of daily hot baths, and made her use complexion soap and a stiff flesh brush all over. With no other "beauty" treatment than that, her sallow skin began to clear and bloom. She simply hadn't been giving her complexion a chance.

If you do not readily believe that daily bathing of the body clears the face of blackheads, you'll less readily believe that too starchy a diet often causes dandruff and poor hair. But remember that everything acts upon the health of the scalp; a bad diet, bad digestion—result, bad hair. If you want rich color, eat vegetables with iron in them, eat carrots and greens of all sorts, spinach and kale, cauliflower, cabbage, Brussels sprouts.

Your complexion will improve, too, by the way. And if you are careless about wet feet and such things and develop rheumatism, your hair will grow gray earlier than you expect. Grayness from rheumatism is an evenly distributed grayness, but none the less unbecome.

Mary A. W.—The only way to prevent blackheads is to remove all soil from the skin at least every day, and be particular about all avenues of elimination. The pores will become enlarged if the skin is overworked to keep the system cleared, and blackheads follow such a condition.

Roselle—Which hazel is mildly astringent and it will be all right for you to use it as base for powder when you find the skin too oily. Do not use it, however, except at those times when the skin is in need of an astringent. When there is difficulty in getting a powder to stay on it is just

Mrs. Crosby Adams, of Montreal, N. C., formerly of Chicago, will arrive Monday to visit Miss Evelyn Jackson at 112 West Fifth street.

Mrs. Adams is a composer of note and one of the foremost musical educators of young people in America. Tuesday morning Mrs. Adams will give a lecture, "Musical Education of the Child," to the patrons of "The Evelyn Jackson School of Music."

The occasion of her visit is the graduation of 15 pupils in Miss Jackson's school in Mrs. Adams' home study course. The exercises will take place Monday afternoon at Steinway hall. Mrs. Adams will make a short address to the graduates. Friends of the school are invited.

As well to omit it, and rub the skin all over with a piece of chamois to remove any skin.

L. C. M. C.—For the wart on your hand, rub oil or salt into it. If it does not soften and drop off after a week or so of these daily applications, tie a white silk thread around the base of it and leave it to dry up without any further attention. If you reduce all over you will not have a double chin.

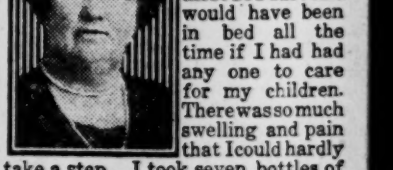

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

How This Woman GOT STRENGTH

Put Up 300 Quarts Fruit, 500 Glasses Jelly and Took Care of Four Children

Norwalk, Ia.—"I have been meaning for some time to write and tell you how much good your medicine has done me. When I started to take it I was almost bed fast and would have been in bed all the time if I had had any one to care for my children. There was much swelling and pain that I could hardly take a step. I took seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and found that so healing. I am not entirely well yet for I was in bad shape when I started your medicine, but I am so much better that I am not afraid to recommend it, and I think if I keep on taking it, it will cure me. I have done my work all alone this summer, caring for four children, and I canned 300 quarts of fruit and made 500 glasses of jelly, so you see I must be better. I feel pretty good all the time and I am glad to tell others about the medicine."—Mrs. C. J. WENNER-MARK, Box 141, Norwalk, Iowa.

Women can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CRACKERS WIN SECOND FROM BARONS BY 10-2 SCORE

Karr Allows Only 8 Hits; Red Smith Gets 4 Bingles Out of Five Times at Bat

BY HENRY ALLEN.

Constitution Staff Correspondent.

Birmingham, Ala., May 23.—(Special.)—Benny Karr, ace of the Crackers twirling staff, took no chances with the Birmingham club here today and held his opponents to eight hits and only two runs while the Atlanta sticklers were knocking Bates, the star Barons pitcher, around the field for 16 hits and 10 runs.

The game belonged to the Niehoff outfit from the Gate City from the first inning, when Atlanta made its first run. The Crackers followed this early start by making two in the second, one in the fourth, two in the fifth and two in each of the eighth and ninth frames.

The Barons crossed the counting platter once in the second and then waited until the ninth to get their second tally.

Karr helped to win his own game by his one hit, which was for three bases. Paschal, who watched the left field for Bert Niehoff, was the other Atlanta slugger, to get a three-bagger. Two-base knocks were more plentiful. McCabe, Smith and Hawthorn all accounted for one each.

Red Smith Star Hitter.
The slugger star of the game, though, was old reliable "Red" Smith, who stepped to the plate five times during the fray and missed hitting the pill only once. Frankie Zoellers, the abbreviated playmate of Paschal and McCabe in the gardens, cracked out two hits with the exception of one, which was a fly ball.

The victory turned in today gives the Crackers eight wins out of the last nine games played. The Crackers played against the Barons in the "Dutch" Krehmer's huddle, which filled the bases and allowed the Barons to score later.

Swartz May Pitch Today.
Just who Niehoff will send against the Barons in the final game today is not known, but it is believed that Ray Francis or Monroe Swartz will draw the assignment. A Swartz has not been given a real chance this year. Niehoff may start the former Sully leaguer and save Francis for the opener in Memphis Sunday.

Hollis McLaughlin is still troubled with his sore arm and there is no doubt that he will be out of the game until the Memphis series.

In the first inning, Zoellers, first up, walked and was out to third on McCabe's double to left. Paschal hit to Stewart and Zoellers was out at the plate. Burrus forced Paschal. Smith singled to force McCabe. The second frame netted two runs for the Crackers. Hawthorn was an easy out. Karr tripled to left, but Zoellers was out. Bates to Knobe. McCabe singled to left to force Karr. Gangel let the ball get through and McCabe was safe at third before he had been properly fielded. Paschal then crashed out one of the longest hits made on the local diamond this season for
